

Horse Farm Owners- Do you know about the programs offered by the Soil & Water Conservation services in your county?
Is your farm Agriculture Assessed? Should it be?

Come find out at our FREE workshop on Tuesday, January 19th, 7:00-9:00pm at Cornell Cooperative Extension of Saratoga
County

Horse Farmers... You Could Be Saving Money!

Ballston Spa, NY- Cornell University Cooperative Extension of Saratoga County and the Saratoga County Soil & Water Conservation District are hosting a FREE equine educational seminar entitled, "Soil & Water Services and How They Benefit Horse Farm Owners: An Ag Economic Management Workshop". The seminar will take place on Tuesday, January 19th at 7:00 pm at the Saratoga County Cornell Cooperative Extension offices, 50 W. High Street, Ballston Spa, NY. Horse Farmer's, has your farm been Ag Assessed? You could be saving thousands of dollars! Topics to be discussed include: How farmer's can save money with Ag Assessment, Agricultural Environmental Management Programs available to horse farmer's, who qualifies, who does the assessment, what part soil and water quality management plays in the process. In addition, we will touch on fencing programs and farm planning programs available. Upon completion of the presentation, there will time allotted for group discussion and Q & A. Light refreshments will be available. Please call Sharon LaPier at 885-8995 ext 202 or stl32@cornell.edu to register.